Dear Parents / Carers,

We are still getting communication from parents about what work the children should be doing during this time of closure. If you are reading this form of email communication for the first time, could I request that you go back through all other communication from the school - they will come through from 'Info' as the sender (we are working with our provider to change this, but our attempts have been unsuccessful so far) as all our online learning platforms are listed in the emails for you to access. They include:

- Mathletics
- TimesTable Rock Stars
- Purple Mash

Your children's login details are stuck in their homework books.

- Our School website has work packs in the homework section of each class page
- On our curriculum pages, you can see the topic overviews for children to do their own learning
- Twitter - Your child's class teacher is posting regular challenges for the children to complete and also posting links to free resources that the children can use.

Here is a link to the assembly that I recorded and sent to parents on Monday:

Monday's Assembly

It clarifies our expectations around work and lists all the school Twitter feeds. It also has a Headteacher challenge, based on our Theme of the Week. If you have friends in your own networks, please could you direct them to the emails that have been previously sent out so that they can keep up to date with all the communication the school has sent out in preparation for the closure.

Thank you to all the parents that have been sending in photos via Twitter. Your teachers are really liking being able to keep in contact and see the children having fun with their learning.

Best wishes,

Matt Hickey
