Moving Up

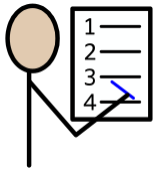

Morning

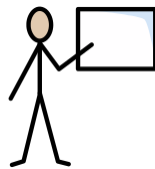

Social Story

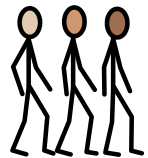

On Wednesday, it is Moving Up Morning. This is a chance to meet my new teacher and visit my new classroom.

First, I will go to my current classroom and my teacher will take the register.

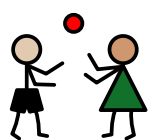

Next, my year group will meet together. My current teacher will tell me who my teacher will be next year.

I will line up with my new class, and at 9:30am the adults will take us to our new classroom.

I will spend the morning with my new teacher and classmates, taking part in activities and getting to know my new classroom.

At break time, I will play in the playground I will use next year. My new teacher will collect the class afterwards and take us back inside.

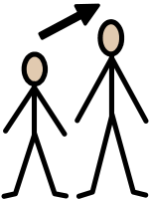

I will return to my current class for lunchtime. The adults will help everyone know where to go.

It is okay if I feel excited, worried or unsure. Lots of children feel this way when they are getting ready for a new class.

The adults in school know how to help me. They will be there to answer my questions and make sure I feel safe.

Moving Up Morning is a chance to meet my new teacher, see my new classroom and get ready for another exciting year at school.
